BRITISH SEALING TRAP AROUND ITALIAN FORCES AT TOBRUK

GARRISON Bill Providing Broad Lease-Lend Powers is Drafted ENTIRELY ENCIRCLED

Offensive in North Africa Enters Second Month With Mechanized Army of the Nile Sweeping Far Beyond Port Under Virtual Siege; Fleet Reported to Have Blockaded Harbor and Intense Bombardment is Expected Hourly

ROME ADMITS SERIES OF RAIDS ON NAPLES

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 9.—(P)—A lightning drive by British mechanized forces beyond besieged Tobruk in Libya and a native uprising which forced Italians to flee an outpost in western Ethiopia, were announced today by the British Middle East Command.

In Ethiopia, the communiqué said, "patriots, encouraged by support from the Royal Air Force, have compelled the Italians to evacuate the post of Gubba; the Patriots now are closing round the fleeing Italian garrison."

Gubba is in western Ethiopia, 20 miles from the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan border, on the blue Nile, southwest of Lake Tana.

Another Italian post, the communiqué said, was abandoned by the Italians northeast of Kassala and occupied by British forces. Kassala is in the Sudan, near the Ethiopian border.

By the Associated Press
Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 9.—(P)—The British offensive in North Africa entered its second month today with the mechanized army of the Nile encircling Tobruk after a 125-mile drive across the desert marked by smashing victories over the Italians at Sidi Barrani and Bardia.

British forces have captured the Italian air base at Gazala where they found 30 unserviceable Italian planes, an RAF communiqué reported.

(This announcement would indicate that British mechanized units had swept far beyond Tobruk, already under virtual siege, since Gazala is some 40 miles west of Tobruk, which is 50 miles inside Libya.)

Two days ago British troops also occupied the abandoned Italian air base at El Adeni, only 15 miles south of Tobruk, and found there 40 Italian planes damaged in previous British bombings.

FURTHER GREEK GAINS CLAIMED

Athens, Greece, Jan. 9.—(P)—A "whole company of mortars" and more than 300 prisoners were captured by the Greeks in restricted local fighting along the snow-covered Albanian battlefield yesterday, the Greek High Command announced.

Greek warplanes bombed and machine-gunned battlefield areas and shot down three Italian planes, a communiqué said. In the Klisura sector, Greek patrols were said to have made minor gains.

A government spokesman, referring to Italian claims to successes against the Greeks, commented: "In fact, there have been some operations of local importance in the Pogradetz region where the Italians attempted to capture some of our advanced units. The enemy was decimated, being unable even to remove its dead (about 20)."

He said the main hospital at Salonika, full of Italian wounded, was bombed but that no damage or casualties resulted.

New Legislature Convenes

Governor Arthur H. James, speaking to both houses of Pennsylvania's 134th assembly opening in joint session at Harrisburg, calls for "an armistice on the political battlefield" to help "rearm this nation so that we need fear no dictator on earth." It was the second politically-divided legislature in 40 years, with Democrats controlling the house and Republicans the senate.

SEEK DETAILS OF $100,000 LOAN MADE TO DEMOS

Washington, Jan. 9.—(P)—Senator Tamm (R-N.H.) told the senate campaign committee today that R. J. Reynolds, wealthy tobacco man, had loaned $275,000 to Democratic groups during the fall political campaigns.

Reynolds recently was named treasurer of the Democratic national committee.

A short time before, Chairman Gillette (D-Iowa) had suggested that the committee might have been "unfair" in calling for testimony on a $100,000 loan by Reynolds to the New Jersey state Democratic committee.

The possibility of unfairness, Gillette said, was due to the fact that various campaign groups had made numerous large loans.

Witnesses told the committee yesterday that Reynolds loaned $100,000 to the New Jersey state Democratic committee to pay the costs of a radio broadcast by President Roosevelt and two other broadcasts by his supporters just before the November elections.

First testimony about the $100,000 loan came yesterday from Charles Quinn, secretary of the New Jersey state Democratic committee.

Quinn surprised the investigating senators by telling that Quayle, then treasurer of the Democratic national committee, telephoned (Turn to Page Thirteen)

TWO MORE P.A. GUARD UNITS REPORT MONDAY

Philadelphia, Jan. 9.—(P)—Members of two more Pennsylvania National Guard regiments—the 190th and 166th Field Artillery—began putting their civilian affairs in order today.

Both outfits have been ordered to report Monday for a year's training with the regular army under the National Defense Program.

With the 141st regiment from Mississippi, the regiments will form the 73rd brigade, to be stationed at Camp Shelby, Miss.

The regiments will report to their home stations on Monday for a 10-day induction period before leaving for the south.

The 190th is centered about Harrisburg, while the 166th has units in Philadelphia and suburbs. Waynesboro, Chambersburg, Conshohocken and Lewistown.

Preparations Launched in Washington for President's Inauguration on January 20th

Capitol Steps Already Covered With Broad White Platform Where Franklin D. Roosevelt Will Take Oath for a Third Time

PLANS FOR MILLION

Washington, Jan. 9.—(P)—Up and down Pennsylvania avenue workmen are busily erecting the "props" for Washington's big quadrennial show—the inauguration of a president.

The first bunting was draped today on the facade of a restaurant building, a sure sign that January 20 is not far off.

The capitol steps have been covered with a broad white platform, where Franklin D. Roosevelt will take his oath for a third time. In front of the White House a colonial pavilion and a "court of peace" are being constructed for the president and state governors to review a glittering inaugural parade of military and civilian units.

And along the mile between these show places supports are being laid for thousands and thousands of bleacher seats, from which spectators can watch the parade. Two hundred army planes and 80 navy planes will fly over the route.

The arrangements committee enthusiastically predicts that a million persons will see either the brief inauguration ceremonies or the parade.

The first event of the inaugural program will be a gala concert in (Turn to Page Thirteen)

FRENCH ON RUN IN INDO CHINA

Hanoi, French Indo-China, Jan. 9.—(P)—The French acknowledged today a general withdrawal of five to 10 miles inside the Cambodia frontier with Thailand (Siam).

That patrols pressed concerted attacks on two main fronts—one 100 miles long and the other 85. These were on the borders of the provinces of Cambodia and Laos.

The French said their troops were withdrawing to previously prepared lines because border terrain in those areas was strategically indefensible.

Bangkok, Thailand, Jan. 8.—(P)—(Delayed)—The Thai (Siamese) army is advancing into the French Indo-China province of Cambodia in blitzkrieg style, supported by air raids covering practically all the province, according to information contained in tonight's High Command communiqué.

Ninety planes participated in extensive bombing raids yesterday, the communiqué said, and the entire city of Sisophon, 20 miles from Cambodia, is ablaze.

(At Vichy, the French announced officially today that their planes had bombed the Thai (Siamese) villages of Aengna and Kemason "in reprisal" for Thai attacks on French territory.) (Turn to Page Thirteen)

HALIFAX MISSION STRESSED

Prime Minister Churchill Pins Britain's Hopes of Victory on United States in a Formal Benediction to New Ambassador-Designate to Washington, in Speech Given at Luncheon by Pilgrims in London in His Honor

ALL MEMBERS OF THE CABINET ARE PRESENT

By the Associated Press
London, Jan. 9.—Prime Minister Churchill pinned Britain's hope of victory on the United States in a formal benediction today to the new British ambassador-designate to Washington, Lord Halifax.

The former foreign secretary's mission, Churchill said at a luncheon given by the Pilgrims in Halifax's honor, is "as momentous as any that the monarchy has entrusted to an Englishman in the lifetime of the oldest of us here."

Churchill declared it Britain's "fervent hope" that the mission "may prosper."

The prime minister said it was no exaggeration to say that "the whole future of the world and a civilization founded on Christian ethics" depended on relations between Britain and the United States.

TRAPPED MINER DIES WITH RESCUE NEAR

Heckeschersville, Jan. 9.—(P)—Tired miners who worked almost 48 hours in an attempt to rescue James Ryan from a mountain coal hole, sorrowfully arranged today to place his body back into the ground.

Just before they broke through the last barrier yesterday, the 26-year-old coal miner died, trapped between a coal car and the side of the mine where a slide caught him and a partner on Monday. The partner was rescued unharmed earlier.

Ryan died apparently from exposure.

For 11 hours he had chatted with comrades digging through snow and debris, but as the last of the pinning earth was being removed, his voice weakened and he apologetically complained of the cold.

Parts from the automobile factory also will be used by the Douglas Aircraft Company, which (Turn to Page Thirteen)

Nation's 250,000 "Tramps and Bums" to be Put to Work as an Aid to Defense Program

"Best House-cleaning the United States Ever Had," Hobo "King" Jeff Davis Declares on a Visit to Pittsburgh for Meeting

MANY JOINING ARMY

Pittsburgh, Jan. 9.—(P)—The Hoboes of America, Inc., announced today the start of a campaign to put the nation's 250,000 "tramps and bums" to work, as a further contribution to the defense program.

"It will be the best house-cleaning the United States ever had," declared Hobo "King" Jeff Davis, who dropped into Pittsburgh from his home town of Cincinnati, O., for a special meeting of hobo officers.

"First," he said, "all hoboes must get off the road this year. They must settle down to real jobs. Thousands have already done this, many taking defense jobs in industry, or joining the army and navy."

"That will leave on the road only tramps and bums—300,000 tramps and 150,000 bums—none of them ever worked. Then, the police can easily arrest those and make them go to work. There are enough mental tasks for all of them."

A baldish man of 58 with graying sideburns, long hair and a beard, he called those he calls tramps and bums while praising the qualities of the hoboes, who (Turn to Page Thirteen)

James to Confer With Democrats Frequently In Spite of Differences in Initial Meeting

New Commander of U. S. Fleet

Under President Roosevelt's reorganization of the U. S. fleet, Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, above, will become commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet with the additional title and duty as U. S. fleet. He will succeed Admiral James O. Richardson, present commander-in-chief.

Executive Not Discouraged By Remark of State Chairman That Interview Tuesday Was "Distressingly Inconclusive"

IS ALSO "SURPRISED"

Harrisburg, Jan. 9.—(P)—Governor James said today he expected to confer with Democratic legislators "from time to time" over the aims for the 1941 session despite differences that cropped up in his first meeting with Democratic State Chairman Meredith Meyers.

Meyers, who called on James yesterday at the governor's request, issued a statement later calling it "a distressingly inconclusive interview."

Meyers declared James had "no specific problems to discuss with us and wanted to talk only generalities he is letting the people down."

The governor told his press conference the "Democratic majority in the House would not let the people down" if it enacted his program, adding:

"I'm surprised he (Meyers) was surprised that I didn't let my hair down and divulge a lot of inner secrets. I made suggestions to the general assembly. He didn't make any."

James said "it was the first time I ever met the gentleman."

"I don't ask anything of Democracy" (Turn to Page Thirteen)

PLEA FOR MERCY IN HOPSON CASE IS DISREGARDED

Man Who Created Vast Utilities Empire Which Topped and Collapsed of Its Own Weight Sentenced to Serve Five Years On 17 Counts

TO RUN CONCURRENTLY

New York, Jan. 9.—(P)—Howard C. Hopson, who created a vast utilities empire which finally toppled and collapsed of its own weight, was sentenced today to five years imprisonment on each of the 17 mail fraud counts on which he was convicted Dec. 31.

The terms were to run concurrently.

Federal Judge Alfred C. Cox, who presided during the eight weeks of Hopson's trial, disregarded a plea for mercy by Hopson's lawyer, Fred A. Ironside, Jr., who contended that business standards were different in the days of Hopson's operations from what they are now.

Hopson stood beside his lawyer, during the pleading, silent, his hands clasped behind his back. He dropped them to the side as the court pronounced sentence. He gazed steadily at the judge, his face expressionless.

The one-time head of the billion dollar Associated Gas and Electric System, now a broken feeble man, was charged by Assistant U. S. Attorney General Hugh A. Fulton with perpetrating one of the largest frauds, is not the largest, in financial history.

The government charged that Hopson defrauded stockholders and various units of the intricate, pyramided Associated Gas and Electric set-up of approximately $20,000,000.

Goebels Says Present Pause Only Creative

Berlin, Jan. 9.—(P)—German offensives "run off with the regularity of clock" because preceding them have been intervals of most careful preparation," Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels told foreign correspondents today.

He cautioned correspondents therefore not to regard the present apparent lull in operations as meaning that Germany does not know what to do next.

"The present pause is creative and is only apparent," he said, "exactly what it wants and how to realize this," Goebbels declared.

He reminded his hearers that Germany's enemies scoffed at the lull in operations during the winter of 1933-1940.

"Then on May 10 the great offensive began in the west which in the shortest time imaginable brought France to her knees."

MEASURE READY FOR CONGRESS

Administration Lieutenants Declare Proposed Legislation for Further Aid to Britain is Entirely New and Does Not Involve Amendments to Any Existing Laws; Cost Estimates Range From Two to Ten Billions Over Period of Years

PLAN SIMULTANEOUS INTRODUCTION FRIDAY

Washington, Jan. 9.—(P)—A tentative draft of a bill granting the government broad powers to lend ships, tanks, guns and planes to Great Britain and other "democracies" has been completed and may be ready for congress tomorrow.

Administration lieutenants said that the measure is entirely new legislation and does not involve amendments to any existing laws, such as the neutrality act or the Pittman loan of last June authorizing assistance for Latin American nations engaged in defense programs.

GOING TO HYDE PARK

Washington, Jan. 9.—(P)—President Roosevelt will leave tomorrow for a week-end visit to his home in Hyde Park, N. Y., returning early next week.

The weekly cabinet meeting was set for this afternoon instead of tomorrow to permit him to get away tomorrow sometime after addressing the Woman's National Press Club.

The speech will be off the record.

Whatever the ultimate cost of the leased-lend plan, estimates range from $2,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000 over a period of years—the bill as now drafted will carry no sums, one leader said.

It would merely authorize such future appropriations as may be required from time to time, he added. "This conformed with the statement in President Roosevelt's budget" (Turn to Page Thirteen)

Caribbean and Canal Commands are Unified

Washington, Jan. 9.—(P)—Consolidation of the army's commands in the Panama Canal and in the Caribbean area was announced today by Secretary Stimson to strengthen western hemisphere defenses.

Stimson said the existing Panama Canal and Puerto Rican departments and the new Trinidad base command would be unified under the command of Lieutenant General Daniel Van Vorhis, Canal Zone chief.

The purpose of the move, Stimson told a press conference, is to provide a unified command for the entire Caribbean area, with the aim of increased efficiency and, particularly, centralized control of air defenses and forces.

Stimson declined to disclose what reinforcements were planned for the Caribbean area or how strong would be units assigned to the new base on Newfoundland.

"What's the use of telling Mr. Hitler how many troops we are sending to the Caribbean?" Stimson said. "He may have sources of finding out, but I am not going to be one of them."

Accidental Discovery of Vaccine Against Flu Gives New Conceptions About Immunity

Chicago, Jan. 9.—(P)—The accidental discovery of a new vaccine against influenza was hailed by medical authorities today as "one of the most promising practical leads in research of recent decades."

The Journal of the American Medical Association places this valuation on the preventive inoculation and reported that it gives scientists some radically new ideas about immunity against disease.

Dr. F. L. Horsfall, Jr., and Dr. E. H. Lennette of the Rockefeller Foundation, who discovered the vaccine recently found in later studies that it stimulates the development of immunity against several types of organisms, a highly significant fact.

The vaccine "seems to have been a purely accidental discovery," the Journal related. About a year ago a few ferrets inoculated with human "flu" virus developed distemper also. To prevent spread of distemper a vaccine effective on previous occasions was injected into 137 other normal ferrets. Two days later, in continuing the "flu" experiment, some of these animals were inoculated in the nose with "massive doses" of three distinct strains of human influenza (Turn to Page Thirteen)

Speaking of the theme, "Jesus Christ Is the Answer," Dr. T. E. Crues, First Methodist minister, presided in the First Presbyterian church. The church choir sang a lovely anthem, "Finest Lord Jesus."

In the Church of the Nazarene, the program was carried out in keeping with the regular prayer service the pastor, Rev. H. B. Ward, calling upon various laymen for prayer and the Rev. M. I. Harding of Epworth Methodist, minister speaking.

Tonight's speaker will be Rev.

J. A. Davidson, of the First Baptist church, and Rev. S. R. Schaefer, of the Salem Evangelical church, preaching in the First Methodist and Grace Methodist churches, respectively. The topic is, "The Responsibility of America."

Concluding the series on Friday evening, services will be held in the First Baptist church, Rev. W. C. W. speaking, and in the United Brethren church with the message by the Rev. Irving K. Dietzsch.

AIR MAIL TRIP CANCELLED DUE TO SNOWSTORM

Bad flying conditions resulted in the cancellation of today's flights of the air mail pick-up service, it was reported at the Warren Airport. The morning trip was cancelled out at about 8:15 o'clock, an hour and ten minutes before it was due here on its way to Jamestown. The afternoon trip also is cancelled.

Yesterday morning, bad conditions resulted in a delay in the morning trip. The plane, due here at 9:25 did not arrive until 11:45.

On the return trip, the plane was delayed at Titusville when a faulty hook on the pick-up device made it necessary to land. The device was repaired and the plane continued on its trip to Pittsburgh after a 35-minute delay.

FIRST SHIPMENT TO BE MADE BY RED CROSS HERE

The women of Warren borough and county have been faithfully working for the Red Cross and the results of their efforts will soon be felt, it was stated today by one of the local chapter leaders.

The group is planning to make a partial shipment of its first quota about January 15. At that time women's dresses and skirts, girls' dresses and skirts, boys' shirts and overalls, convalescents' robes, hospital pajamas, men's, women's and children's sweaters, will be shipped for war relief.

A display of these garments will be held next week in the Red Cross headquarters in the Metzger-Wright store basement, and samples of the work will be exhibited in one of the company's display windows.

All of this work has been done by women of the borough and surrounding county. Units have been organized throughout the borough and county and the work has been accomplished by groups in churches, in clubs, in various women's organizations, and much of it has been done in the individual home.

Emphasis was placed today on the big job the local chapter has ahead of it to complete its quota by the end of January. The plea from national headquarters for these garments to help keep warm the homeless people of the war-stricken countries is great.

The Red Cross can do this only by more and more persons volunteering for work. The local chapter needs units in more churches and clubs; needs more individuals who will come to the workroom in headquarters—not only experienced sewers but helpers to do the many little odd jobs necessary before the garments can be shipped; needs more individuals who are willing to take work to their own homes; needs many more knitters; needs sewing machines, both electric and foot; findings for sewing, soft clean linen that can be used for towels for babies.

But, above all, the Red Cross needs the individuals who are interested in this great project of war relief.

Red Cross headquarters are open from one until five every afternoon, except Saturday, in the basement of the Metzger-Wright store.

Erie School Superintendent Gives Interesting Talk at Local Meeting

"The 4 H's of 4-H Club work form a formidable code of ethics for anyone to follow in these modern times," said Herman C. Grose, Erie superintendent of schools, speaking yesterday, at the meeting of the Warren County Agricultural Extension Association, held at the Y. M. C. A.

Members of the Warren Kiwanis Club and the local Chamber of Commerce joined with the farm men and women for the luncheon, which followed the morning session of the association's annual meeting, held at the court house.

"The most important 'H' is that of health," said Mr. Grose. "Our results in the recent draft, while better than those of the last World War, still prove that many men are physically unfit and the percentage is still very high. I looked about me a while ago and noticed that of the sixteen people at my table, nine wear glasses. In recent months I have noticed a great number of male deaths between the ages of 43 and 48. These are caused by fast living without any regard for health."

"We would advise an annual health checkup for everybody whether we feel that it is needed or not. We must be as careful with our bodies as the farmer is with his farm stock and as industry is with its machinery. Greater use must be made of the simple means of checking our bodies for little use is made now of these means."

"The next 'H' stands for head. American citizens need to use their heads now more than ever before, we must not depend on other people to do our thinking for us because if every man could learn to think the problems of mankind could all be solved. We have too many wasted brains now for instead of giving scholarships to those who show promise we give them to the man who can carry a football down the field."

"While formal education is essential informal education for those over forty must not be neglected. Education is a life process and when that is realized a start has been made for a good one. Our children must be given the opportunity of learning informally too and the best method is that of learning by doing."

"The third 'H' stands for hand. Parents today place too much of a premium on the professions and white-collar job and not enough on trades. Hard hand work is necessary for growth and the home should provide opportunity of doing it so the child can develop. Hand work teaches the child how to work in the good old-fashioned way. Good old-fashioned sweat will cure many of our modern ills and lead us from the paths of present-day thinking which teaches us to hold out our hands to receive the bounty of the government and any other agency that has the where-with-all to give."

"The last 'H' is for the heart. Without a proper attitude the other three 'H's' are lost. America must get back to the church and renew its interest in things spiritual. We must cease our needless rush and give thought to our fellow man and his well-being as well as our own. America needs to give thought to the heart today."

"The code of the 4-H Club is a simple one that was followed by our forefathers and as it led them to great accomplishment so will it lead us if we only give it a chance to work."

A LITTLE BIT OF EVERYTHING!

Another of those pleasant and sociable gatherings, inspired by the convention of the Warren County Agricultural Extension Association, was held in Warren yesterday, featured by a joint dinner at the Y. M. C. A. attended by service clubs and members of the Farm Bureau, during which local citizens had an opportunity to again enjoy the fine fellowship of many of the county's rural residents.

The mystery of the explosion during the Christmas tree burning Monday night, which for a time caused considerable apprehension among those in the crowd, was cleared Tuesday when two boys voluntarily admitted to Girl Scout officials they tossed the can which contained kerosene, into the flames. The youngsters paid for the can which had been loaned for the purpose, and apologized for their action. It was a praiseworthy admission on the part of the boys, deserving of much commendation.

According to reports a large number of railroads are being dismantled around Warren these days—and most of them are being stored in attics.

Ballots are in the mails for the annual election of members of the board of directors of the Warren Chamber of Commerce to be held January 16th. Harking back to arguments used in general election campaigns, here is an opportunity for members who may be dissatisfied with the C. of C. as it is now constituted, to have something to say about who will be on the board for the coming year. If you don't vote, for goodness sake don't criticize!

Through the far-sightedness of those who select the attractions for the Y. M. C. A. Lecture Forum people of Warren will have an opportunity Friday night to hear one of the outstanding authorities on secret service and espionage, in the person of Richard Wilmer Rowan, when he comes here to discuss "Secret Agents Against America." This should prove to be one of the most timely lectures ever presented on a local platform.

A self-sacrificing group of citizens who work unceasingly to bring comfort and relief to the less fortunate was "drafted" for another twelve months of service when the Warren Relief Association decided to re-elect all old officers at the annual meeting held Tuesday at the Y. W. C. A. It was a wise choice that brings with it the assurance that there will be no interruption in this important public service to the community.

Again emphasizing the value of music in the schools and the pleasure it brings, not only to the participating students, but to the public generally, a large crowd thoroughly enjoyed the concert played by the High School Band at the Bealy gym last evening. On each succeeding appearance in public the student musicians, under the direction of a capable staff, show continued progress.

In this time of turmoil and bloodshed many are finding much comfort and spiritual uplift through attendance at the "Week of Prayer" services being conducted nightly under the auspices of the Warren County Ministerial Association. Services will be held tonight at the First Methodist in the central district, and the Grace Methodist for the east side.

The dove of peace certainly does not seem to be nesting over the capitol dome at Harrisburg. See where Meredith Meyers, Democratic state chairman, says leaders of his party were "surprised and disappointed" by a conference with Governor James over legislative problems, which was held Wednesday afternoon.

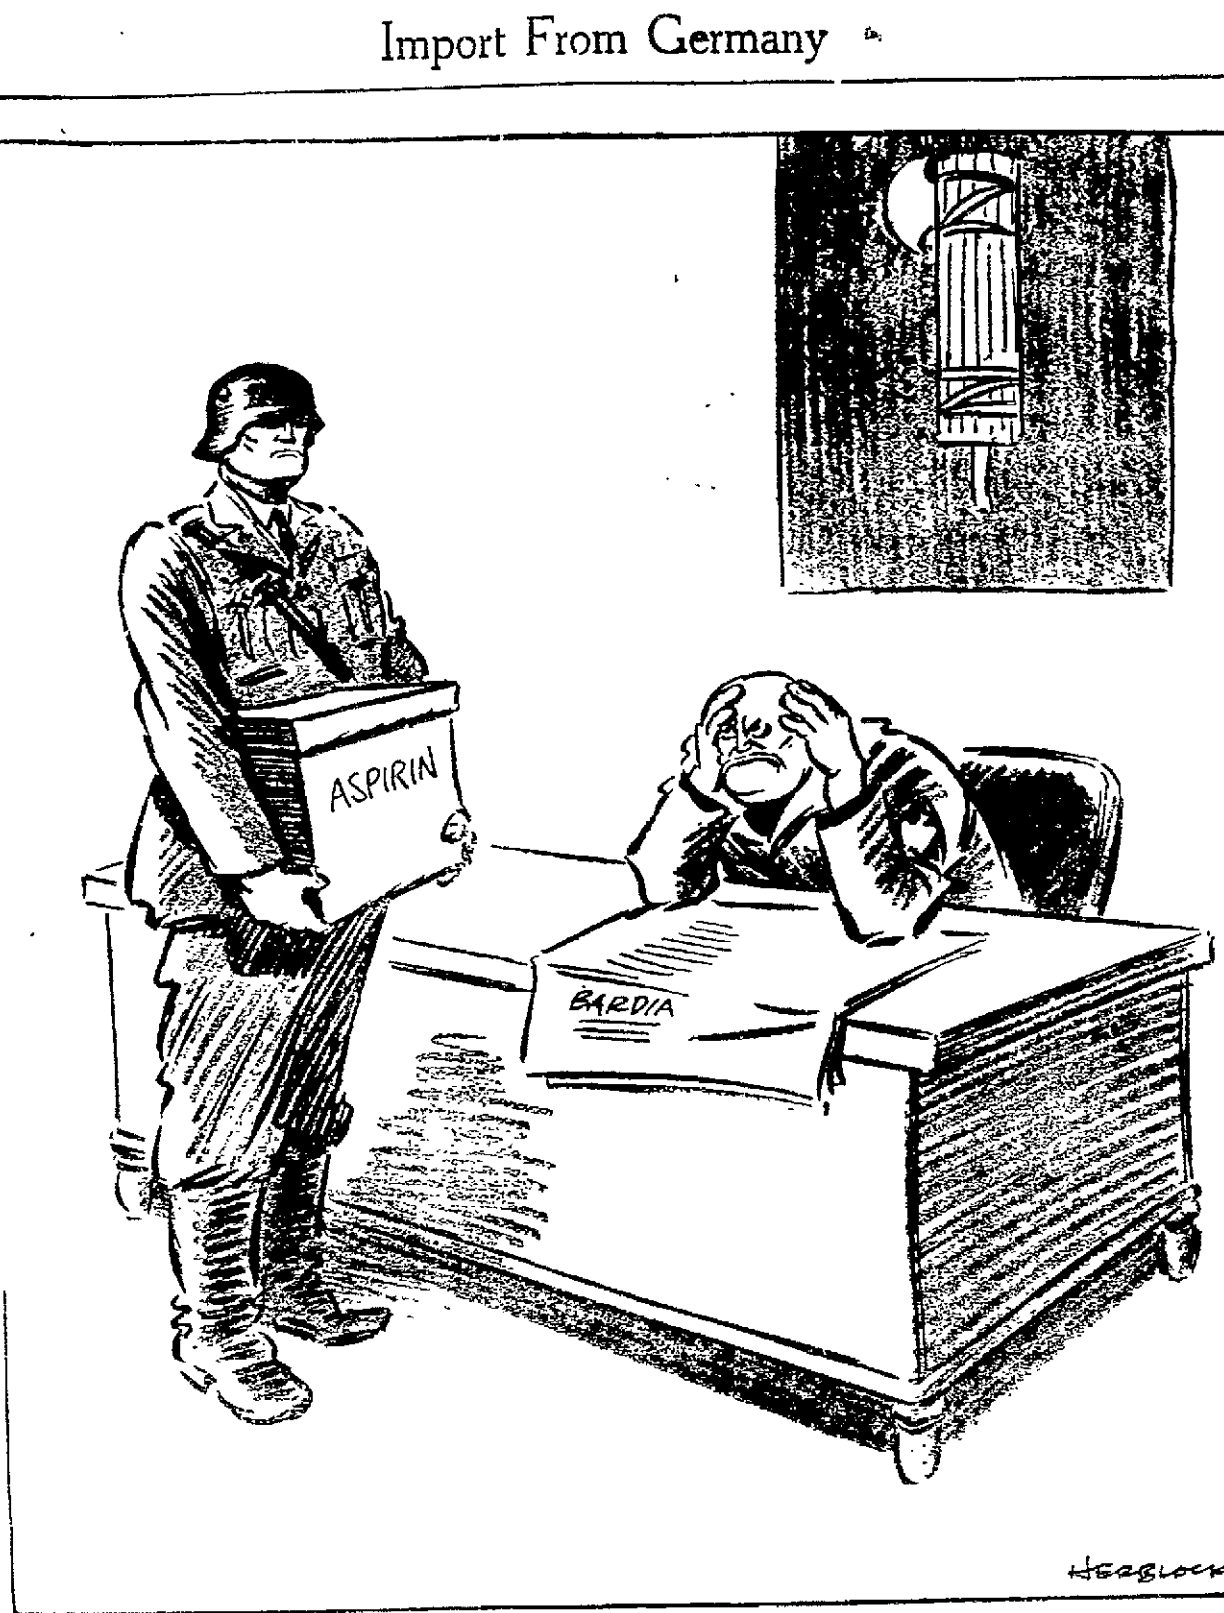

Folk who may feel like questioning the advisability of purchasing a police radio system are reminded that it is their privilege to call around at the city building and acquaint themselves with some of the financial and other problems that will be solved through the installation of such a plan.

LESSER RETURNING TO CAPITAL SCENE AS LEADER OF NEW RELIEF-LABOR BODY

Washington, Jan. 9. — David Lesser as head of the militant Workers Alliance was something to frighten congressmen with a couple of years ago. Now he is building up a new relief-labor group called the American Security Union—and he is plenty sore and vocal about what he calls unfairness to WPA labor on national defense projects.

Lesser cites work on the new Washington airport. The bulk of the work is being done under private contract but some WPA labor is also being used. In many cases, Lesser says, a WPA worker toils beside a privately employed worker, doing precisely the same job. The WPA man gets 40 cents an hour, or $12 a week; the other man gets 80 cents an hour—and working more hours—makes $32 a week.

Lesser believes WPA has about outlived its usefulness. He is urging that under the defense program the government simply hire the necessary people at going wages. Pretty much the same people would be used, but the relief stigma would be gone. Also, the pay would be better.

Under Lesser the Workers Alliance, which claimed a peak membership of 250,000 WPA workers, was able to make itself listened to in the administration. Lesser was often denounced in Congress as a Communist. He was nothing of the kind—although, he now admits, practically everyone else on the executive board was. He got his eyes opened just about the time the Stalin-Hitler pact was signed.

On a cross-country tour shortly after the European war began he was shocked at the attitude the Communist party straw-bosses in the Workers Alliance were taking, and a little later he offered his resignation. The executive board got him to wait, promising some reforms, but the reforms never came and last June he stepped out. Membership then, he says, had dropped to 20,000.

Last August Lesser got together some of the old Alliance leaders, who aren't Communists, and set up the American Security Union. Its big aim is to get relief workers into private employment, to which end it is setting up employment committees wherever it can, and fostering work-training programs.

It also wants to get some permanent provision made for WPA people who have become unemployable. Present membership, Lesser says, stands at about 15,000.

Chester Williams, of the Office of Education, went prowling through the dreary wastelands of Hitler's "Mein Kampf" recently in quest of material for a book on the ways of dictators. He found the following concerning a German-Russian alliance:

"Considered purely militarily, the event of a German-Russian war against the western Europe, which would probably however mean against the rest of the world, the relations would be simply catastrophic. The struggle would proceed not on Russian soil but on German soil, without Germany being able to get from Russia even the slightest effective support. Its outcome would be the end of Germany. The present rulers of Russia do not at all think of entering an alliance sincerely or of keeping one."

The quotation is from pages 957-959 of the Reynal & Hitchcock edition of "Mein Kampf," in Hitchcock's unexpurgated translation.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Legend of St. George Originated in Greece

TODAY Britain battles invasion with the shout, "There'll always be an England!" replacing the old rallying cry, "St. George and England," that has echoed through centuries of English history. The cross of St. George is incorporated into the British flag. St. George and his battle with the dragon has appeared on British stamps, in the Postal Union Congress issue of 1929. Other countries have adopted similar designs. The Rumanian issue, above, commemorated the ninth anniversary of the accession of King Carol II.

Greece uses Bellerophon and Pegasus in the design of an air post stamp, and it is to this mythical character that the legend of St. George has been traced. Mounted on the winged horse, Bellerophon slew the Chimera, fabulous fire-breathing monster.

Archaeologists believe that Christians of a later era adopted this ancient myth, made its hero a saint. Englishmen, however, prefer to believe that St. George was an early Christian soldier of Capadocia, and have adopted him as their patron in battle.

Scout Executive F. C. Roud has received word that Paul Siple, the Erie boy who led the Byrd expedition to the South Pole, will be in Warren on Monday evening, February 9.

Joseph J. Myers has been nominated by President Hoover for reappointment as postmaster at Irvine. The selection was made on the recommendation of Congressman T. C. Cochran.

Exclamations were heard on all sides concerning the remarkable clear weather, blue skies and warm sunshine experienced today.

"SALADA" TEA

America's Finer Tea

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—Welcome to President Roosevelt's third inaugural:

"A first aid program designed as a model on which other large cities may pattern efficient disaster organizations has been planned for inauguration day under direction of Rear Admiral P. S. Rossiter, U. S. N., retired.

"Admiral Rossiter's first aid organization will include establishment of 11 first aid stations along the parade route, each with four nurses, two nurses' aides, four motor corps drivers and eight first aid men and stretcher bearers. Twenty-five ambulances, each carrying a doctor and a nurse, will supplement the stations. Besides the regular station personnel, 200 first aid men will be assigned to posts between the regular first aid stations. Each of these men has been thoroughly trained in standard and advanced first aid courses given by the American Red Cross.

"Familiar with disaster problems, Admiral Rossiter has appointed as members of his committee men conversant with emergency work in large centers. These include Dr. Roy Lyman Sexton, chairman of first aid, life saving and accident prevention of the District of Columbia chapter, American Red Cross; and Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, coroner of the District of Columbia.

"The committee agreed to use the inauguration as an experiment for large-city disaster relief.

These are direct quotes from a recent release by the Inaugural Committee, Fifth Floor, District Building, Washington, D. C. If you have any questions, take it up with them. I'm going to spend inaugural day in my new disaster-proof shelter in the Virginia hills. . . and I WILL be careful, I promise.

Few Civilians To March

Sartorial item: "Two hundred representatives each of the Civilian Conservation Corps, the National Youth Administration and the Works Progress Administration will be the only civilian marchers in the inaugural parade.

"The only other civilians in what is planned to be an essentially military parade will be the governors of the states. . . and these will ride in automobiles.

"The CCC will enter 198 young men. . . wearing the spruce-green CCC uniform and marching empty handed.

"The NYA young people will wear mackinaws made in the NYA sewing rooms. . . a third will be solid red, a third white, and a third solid blue.

"The WPA marchers, chosen from the ranks of national defense workers, will wear working garb.

Okay, Governors, it's up to you. How about wearing your Christmas ties? . . .

The next regular session of the chapter will be held Wednesday, January 22.

Rev. Davidson to Be YW Speaker

Many committee members, representing various groups in the Y. W. C. A., are busy completing final details for the annual banquet and meeting, which has been scheduled for Monday evening, January 20.

The banquet is to be served at six o'clock and already there have been some advance registrations, indication of a very good attendance for the event.

Mrs. J. H. West, general secretary, states that the banquet theme is to be "Faith, Fellowship and Freedom". The guest speaker will be Rev. James A. Davidson, pastor of the First Baptist church. Other details of the program will be announced at a later date.

Hollywood Sights & Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—it was a beautiful idea, and a beautiful float, but the clever exploitation man who planned it didn't believe goats were fond of weird edibles.

It was what they call a natural, this scheme for drawing patrons to local showings of Deanna Durbin's "Spring Parade."

The film's opening sequences, you know, feature Deanna and her goat en route to the market-place. The exploitation man found a "double" for Deanna, borrowed Deanna's peasant costume from the studio, rented a pedigreed goat (not the trained one of the film) and ensconced them all upon a traveling sound truck, with recordings of Deanna's songs amplified by loudspeakers.

"You're right," said the truck's Barker. "This isn't Deanna—just a recording of her songs from the picture. You'll have to go to the Pantages theater to see Deanna." Etcetera.

But pretty soon there weren't any songs. The goat had eaten part of the cable vital to the playing of the recording. And pretty soon there wasn't any artificial grass on the little set they'd built on the truck—the goat had eaten that. And just before they called the whole thing off, the goat had started to make a meal of the sash of Deanna's costume.

My friend, the exploitation man, doesn't understand it. He

Interesting Additions to the Public Library's Memorial Books Collection

The latest books to be added to the Public Library's Memorial Book Collection are Men of Mathematics by E. T. Bell; The Practical Book of American Furniture and Decoration, Colonial and Federal by Edward Stratton Holloway; and Modern Science by Hyman Levy.

Men of Mathematics was presented in memory of Helen Smith, Dr. Bell, professor of mathematics at the California Institute of Technology, is well qualified to write such a book of the lives and achievements of the great mathematicians from Zeno to Poincare.

Antique collectors should appreciate its fine illustrations for identifying pieces. A very practical method of illustrating and treating the furniture by style and in proper chronological order makes it easier to distinguish the characteristics of each group.

Another book presented in memory of Henry F. Miller is Modern Science by Hyman Levy. This study of physical science in the world today is a book which should provoke much thought and discussion among the scientific-minded. Some reviewers have acclaimed it a masterpiece of its kind and it is generally agreed that it is a very important and original book.

All of these books are ready for circulation and may be found in the Memorial Book section at the public library.

BEWARE OF COLDS NOW!

Contagious Colds are Spreading
Take These Time-Tested Precautions

Keep out of crowds as much as possible. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep immunization regular. Don't take needless chances. Don't experiment with untried medications. And be sure to have these two time-tested home-approved treatments on hand, ready for use the moment they are needed:

If a Cold Develops
(Some colds get by all precautions)

Thoroughly massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub, then spread on a thick layer of VapoRub, cover with a warm cloth, and go to bed. VapoRub brings wonderful relief and invites restful sleep. Then four hours later keep working—stimulating the skin like a warming poultice, while its medicinal vapors are breathed into the cold-irritated air passages of nose, throat and chest. Often when morning comes, most of the cold's discomforts are gone.

Now Be Prepared—Get a bottle of Vicks VapoRub and take the above precautions. They may save you a lot of sickness and worry.

ALLEN EPPES

YESTERDAY: Polly and David had the day for their marriage, because David was at last rid of the last of his dependent relatives, and Polly's Aunt Susan was not really much of a problem. But David went home the day he proposed, and sitting on his front step was little Peter Wiley, his 8-year-old cousin from Pennsylvania. And now Polly feels she and David had better postpone the wedding once more.

Chapter Seven
Margo Again

"JEALOUS? How do you mean?" asked David.

"I mean he's so completely wrapped up in you," Polly explained, "he doesn't want to share you with anyone else."

"Nonsense!"

"It's not nonsense, David. Children are funny, sometimes. They have notions just like the grown-ups."

"All right, we'll wait a little longer. But not much longer," said David.

And now the second week had begun.

"Miss Polly likes you a lot, Peter," David was saying to Peter, who had come down to have a look at the lumber plant. "She thinks you're a pretty swell boy."

"Does she?" said Peter somewhat vaguely. He stood sniffing the fascinating fragrance of freshly-sawn boards. "Gee, what a lot of lumber you got piled up down here!"

"You like her, don't you?" David went on persistently.

"Oh, sure, she's all right—as girls go," said Peter.

David gave up. He decided not to go into the matter any further for the time being.

"Come on," he said. "I'll show you the rest of the place. We haven't much time. My lunch hour is nearly up. Then, as they stood eyeing a huge pile of sawdust, he said: "Did you fix yourself a good meal, Peter?"

"Sure, Cousin David," said Peter. "I ate those vegetables you told me to warm up. And I cooked an."

"You should have cooked two," said David. "No, one was enough. I filled up on vegetables. They're better for boys, anyway."

"I think," said David, "that we ought to have a woman in the house. To cook for us, you know—look after the place."

"Shucks, Cousin David," said Peter. "We can get along. It's fun being bachelors together."

"Okay," said David.

While in Ye Old Southern Tea Room, Polly was busy making change. Business was good. Now that a number of men had gotten into the habit of coming to the tearoom for the noonday meal, she had little idle time on her hands.

"Hello, Pollykins!" said a cheerful masculine voice. "I think you remember my daughter."

Polly looked up.

Mr. Powers was smiling at her, and with him was Margo.

"Oh, yes," she said. "Of course I do. How do you do, Margo? It's nice having you back."

"Hello," said Margo. She looked around her, and laughed. "Imagine my great big, thoroughly masculine father eating in such a feminine atmosphere."

"It's the food I like," said Mr. Powers. "And it always does me good to exchange a few words with Polly. I hope you two girls get to be good friends." He gave Polly another one of his whole-souled smiles. "Margo's been away so long," he added, "she's sort of out of touch with the Ardendale folk."

Inspection

AND, thought Polly, not especially anxious to get in touch with them. She looked at Margo again.

David was right. She certainly wasn't hard on the eyes. A bit too sophisticated, in manner as well as dress, perhaps more suited to a New York cocktail lounge than an Ardendale tearoom—but certainly a beauty. A little on the Myrna Loy type, only taller. Cute little nose, amazingly lovely eyes, and hair that was titian and soft and naturally curly.

"Come on, Dad," said Margo. "Let's eat. I hope the food is all you've said it was. I'm hungry."

A colored waitress led them to a table suitable for two.

"Polly's a little beauty, isn't she, Margo?" said Mr. Powers as they sat down. "Plucky little devil, too."

"I wouldn't exactly call her a beauty," said Margo. "But she is pretty—in a terribly feminine sort of way."

"What other way could she be pretty?" Mr. Powers chuckled.

"Oh, I mean," said Margo, "that sometimes girls overdo their femininity."

"I don't get it," her father said. "But let it pass." He turned to the colored girl. "Bring us some of that cream of mushroom soup, Sarah."

"Yes, sir," said the waitress.

"Ah, fried chicken!" Mr. Powers said, delighted. "We'll have that. And bring plenty of corn-sticks. I'm telling my daughter that nothing as delicious as the cornsticks you serve here."

"Yes, sir!"

The girl hurried away with the order. Mr. Powers leaned across the table, and took his daughter's hands in his.

"It's wonderful, Margo, having you home again," he said. "I sure have been a lonely man. All I could do was just work and wait. You're going to stay with me now, aren't you?"

"Of course, Dad!" said Margo. "For the summer—anyway."

"Good!" her father said. "I won't look beyond that. Meanwhile, be nice to Polly and David. They've had a pretty hard time of it during the years you were seeing the world. I'm fond of them both, and I want you to like them also."

"All right, Father, I'll do my best," Margo watched the waitress place their soup before them, and thought of David. How marvelous he had looked yesterday when she saw him standing on top of a pile of lumber—a silhouette against the sky! The wind playing with his hair, while he took some snapshots of the lumber yard. "Dad," she said.

"Yes, Margo?" said her father.

"You want me to marry some day, don't you?"

"Of course!" said Mr. Powers. But what brought that on?"

"Oh, I don't know—I was just thinking," Margo tasted her soup. "There doesn't seem to be much husband material hereabouts. I'm always being introduced to an old maid."

"Don't let that bother you," said Mr. Powers. "A girl like you will never end up an old maid. Like the soup?"

"Yes, I do. It's delicious," Margo glanced over to where Polly was counting change. "Funny, Polly never married, especially when you think she's such a beauty."

"She'll marry, all right," Mr. Powers said. "And soon. Now that I've got David with me, he'll be sure to make some money. He and Polly have had a hard time trying to live their own lives. I'm going to help them all I can."

There was a pucker between Margo's fine brows as she turned her attention to her lunch. Polly and David. Getting married. That meant that David Wiley would soon become just another small-town husband. He would never see the things she had seen, visit the places she had visited.

She again thought of him on a polo pony, dashing across a great expanse of green. Again she visualized him on a surf-board, being driven shoreward by a great grey-blue roller topped with a fringe of foam. What a man to show off, she thought. Imagine taking David with her to all the gay and colorful places she wanted to visit again.

Discouraged

"Eat your lunch," her father said. "That chicken will melt in your mouth."

Margo smiled. "It's all that you said it was, Dad," she told him. "But I think it would be more fun lunching at home. You can very easily manage it."

"Of course," said Mr. Powers. "I was only showing you off today—what's the use of dodging toward Polly?"

"Why not ask Polly and David to come over tonight? You could play bridge, and start really getting acquainted."

"All right, Dad," Margo said, without a great deal of enthusiasm. "If you'd like."

But she decided not to say anything to Polly just then. She wanted to see David alone once or twice before extending any invitations to him and Polly to come up to the big house on the hill.

"Thanks a lot for the nice lunch," she said to Polly as she was leaving.

"Don't thank me," laughed Polly. "Thank Martha, the cook."

She watched the lumberman and his daughter go out and get into their car. Then she went back to checking the lunch slips. And as she worked she did a lot of thinking.

She found herself remembering her mother and a lot of plans they had made. A lot of things her mother had said to her. "You'll go far, Polly, with your background. The Jenkinses are among the first people to settle in this part of the country."

Her mother had also spoken of her father, of his family, the Marshes. The Marshes had also been first settlers. "With your background," Polly shrugged. A lot of good it had done her. That background. Look at her—working as a cashier in a tearoom.

And look at David. He had background, too. Lots of it. The Wileys had always been well-known in the state; David said they could trace their American ancestry back to 1635, one hundred and forty years before the Declaration of Independence was signed. And a lot of good that did David. He was right—a little money would help.

Then she got to thinking about Mr. Powers. His family had come from the wrong side of the railroad tracks. "Just nobodies, that Powers family," she had heard folks say. And yet, Polly thought just look at them now. Mr. Powers had the first home in town and most of the money.

The Jenkinses and the Wileys poor as church mice, and the Powers family, father and daughter, fairly rolling in wealth. It just didn't make sense.

The door of the tearoom opened. Polly looked up.

Peter Wiley came limping in. "Hello, Peter," she greeted.

"Hello," Peter responded, none too cordially. "I got a message for you from Cousin David."

Farrell Rated Western Pennsylvania's Cage Title Hope

Hostilities Open On COMISKEY WILL GIVE NOVA TEST Week; Ban Finalists IN GARDEN BOUT

BY GEORGE A. SCOTT
Associated Press Staff Writer
Harrisburg, Jan. 9.—(P)—State high school basketball fans may see some familiar names in the annual P. L. A. A. championship playoffs this year.

Not all of the 1940 district champions are scheduled to repeat in the current campaign which opens on all cylinders this week, but indications are that three or four of the 12 defending titlholders may be back for another crack at the coveted state crown.

Side in district playoffs, which are scheduled to begin next week, are expected to be the same as last year.

Lebanon, defending state champions, stand out as one of the question marks of the new season. The Cedars last three years, including "Bricks" Stupper, all state guard, by graduation but have captured four out of five pre-league games this year. Coach Bernie Thilsh is outpacing his team around Farret and Hiss, regulars last year, and Shurey and Kowich, who saw plenty of service as reserves in 1940.

Conemaugh, Lebanon's opponent in last year's state final, already has been eliminated from consideration—without even stepping on a basketball court. The Iron Horses were ruled ineligible by the District Six committee for all P. L. A. A. honors this year for using an ineligible football player last fall.

That decision removed one of the strongest contenders from the 1941 title picture. Conemaugh has four of last year's first team available having lost only Mike Towick, all-state forward, by graduation last June.

Two of eastern Pennsylvania's defending champions loom as likely repeaters. Lower Merion, paced by "Dutch" Silverstein, is the early season favorite in District one, while Luzerne, which reached the semi-finals of the 1940 competition, has three veterans, including sharp-shooting Francis Crossin, for its District Two title defense.

With Conemaugh eliminated, the best western Pennsylvania bet to appear as titlholder seems to be District 10 champion and finalist for western Pennsylvania honors last year, The Steelers.

They showed their power in whipping Ford City, annually a strong District 7 contender, 29-8, in a pre-season game last month.

District Seven, better known as the Western Pennsylvania Inter-scholastic Athletic League, is expected to produce its usual wide-open race, although New Castle has been a stand-out in pre-league competition. Charleroi and Canonsburg, last year's district finalist, have been thrown into the same sectional league under a reclassification this year, but neither is expected to figure heavily in the title race.

Eastern Pennsylvania's best "dark horse" appears to be Williamsport. The Millionaires, playing a non-league schedule in District Four, already have chalked up victories over Hazleton, Allentown and Sunbury to serve notice they must be counted in the running.

Hazleton, perennial contender for statewide honors and only school to win three state championships, is slated below par this year, but the Mountaineers scored a tasty 25-24 victory over Bethlehem in the East Penn League opener last week. Bethlehem and Allentown have been rated pre-season favorites for the East Penn circuit title.

New York, Jan. 8.—(P)—To those of us who thought 18 months ago that Lou Nova was heading straight for the heavyweight championship, there is considerable drama promised in the big Californian's attempted comeback against young Pat Comiskey tomorrow night in the Garden.

This one should tell the story, whether Nova is back on the trail of an eventual meeting with Champion Joe Louis or whether he was ruined for good by the horrible beating he took from Tony Galento that cold September night in Philadelphia, when his system already was wrecked with septic poisoning.

Since then he has lived a lonely life, in and out of hospitals while specialists tracked down the disturbance and then another long period of building back his fine physique. Lou thinks he is back now, ready to take up where he left off.

Only a few saw Nova after that Galento fight, before he dragged himself back out west to nurse a shattered dream. Those who did see him said flatly he would never fight again; he was gone for good.

And he is the fellow who starts a fever again tomorrow night. While he was away Billy Conn of Pittsburgh, though still a light heavyweight, won the coveted outdoor shot against Louis next summer, and now Nova faces a long haul to get back where he was 18 months ago.

Torger Tolle appears to be headed into the Hudson river as he jumps 155 feet in winning leap of Bear Mountain Ski Club's first 1941 meet. The sensational young Norwegian's jump was made in face of strong wind.

SOOSE MAY GET Greg Rice Is Second FIGHT WITH NBA Trackman To Receive MIDDLE TITLIST J. E. Sullivan Trophy

Seranton, Jan. 9.—(P)—If Billy Soose can't get assurance for a definite match with Ken Overlin, recognized in some states as the middleweight king, his manager might consider an offer for a meeting with Tony Zale, the N. B. A. champion, in Chicago.

Soose signed in New York yesterday to meet Ernie Vigh at Madison Square Garden on February 7, and shortly thereafter came an offer from Bill Rand, Chicago promoter, for a 15-round meeting with Zale, in the Windy City on February 21.

Paul Moss, manager of the Farrell fighter who holds non-title decisions over both Overlin and Zale, said he first would consult with Promoter Mike Jacobs about a proposed March meeting with Overlin before discussing the Chicago match.

New York, Jan. 9.—(P)—For the seventh time since the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy was established in 1930, a track star has been chosen by a nationwide tribunal as the athlete who has done the most during the past year to advance the cause of sportsmanship.

Greg Rice, Notre Dame alumnus and the greatest distance runner this country has produced, is the latest of the chunder artists to win the coveted award. The announcement last night disclosed that Rice, who thrilled the sport world with his victories over Taisto Maki of Finland last year, had received more points in the voting than the next two candidates combined—Al Patnik, Ohio State diver, and Fred Wolcott, Rice Institute hurdler.

Rice, now employed by a mid-west utility company, probably will receive the trophy when he comes here to defend his three-mile title in the National A. A. U. track and field meet at Madison Square Garden on Feb. 22. His victory in the balloting just concluded was unique in that he never had been nominated before. A total of 33 names were submitted to the committee.

In addition to having won the A. A. U. outdoor 5000 meters championship three years running and being the present indoor three-mile titlholder, Rice astounded the world last winter by creating new records in the two-mile (8:56.2) and three-mile (13:56.7). His victories over Maki, who came from Finland heralded as the world's greatest distance runner, were decisive. Their races raised considerable money for the Finnish Relief Fund, Joe Burk, Philadelphia oarsman won the award last year.

Bill Lutz' koglers had a fine opportunity to step on the high-rising Yergs last night as Doc's boys turned in 2353 total pins, but the former weren't quite up to the job and the Yergs took over undisputed possession of first place, as the Pettibones were taking only three from the Ritchies to give up their half share in the top string.

Yerg was top man for the evening in both divisions, hitting 219 and 247. In the Pettibone-Ritchie match, Doc Robertson's 201 was high single and "Bony" Keil'er's 511 was best three-game block.

The hue and cry against the "speed-up" in basketball has broken out again, and we note that the news service wires are daily carrying interviews with this coach and that coach, in which they unanimously condemn the fast pace at which present-day cagers are forced to travel for periods of play ranging from eight to twelve minutes, with insufficient time to convalesce. And that scuttling noise you hear is your ear's scampering into that camp. In our opinion, basketball has reached a stage where it is no longer a healthy sport for boys of scholastic age, only slightly less strenuous for the collegian and plenty tough for the matured player, unless he is in top condition. The elimination of the center jump following a goal put basketball in a class with ice hockey and the 880-yard run, two sports (or division of sport, in the latter case) which tax endurance to the breaking point and cross the dividing line between exercise and strain. Alphon Allen, one of the nation's best known coaches, is the latest to join the movement to slow down the game, at least for scholastic players, and our guess is that before 1942 the center jump or a modification will be back in the rule book.

The banning of a held-ball at center following a goal and the substitution of an out-of-bounds beneath the scorers' basket unquestionably was the principal factor in bringing basketball to the level where a game between two universities jams Madison Square Garden to the rafters with thrill-seekers. Many of these fans know little or nothing about basketball and are the same types who watch hockey games night after night, ignorant of the fine points of the sport and drawn by the speed and dexterity of the players. For the fans and for the promoters of these contests, this is a great thing. But for the youths out there on the hardwood, we have our doubts. Of course, their enjoyment is little lessened by the killing pace, but at that age none of us ever stopped to consider the damage we might be doing that old ticker by overdoing in athletics. In some cases, coaches took care to see that no undue strain was placed upon an individual and the rule book aided. The same conditions obtain today, but leading medical authorities who have been interviewed on the subject venture the opinion that only unusually frequent substitutions (which would wreck the game entirely) could replace a slowing-down amendment.

We got our basketball experience in the days when "The Plastic Age" was pretty hot reading, but we recall that the old City League teams had on their roster some men whose ages ranged from 32 or 33 to pretty close to the 40 mark. Take a look today. Except for Bill Mulvey, a youngster in the circuit a decade ago, we don't find a player who was cavorting on the Y. M. C. A. hardwood in 1931. Many playing then were just out of high school, which means that the game reached the stage where, except in rare cases, men past 28 or 29 have given up the sport entirely. Perhaps that is one reason for the partial collapse of the court game here and in other localities—the field is too narrow. Ten years ago crowds of 200 and 300 people flocked to the "Y" two or three times a week, while now only a handful witness the league engagements. To us, the speed-up has done nothing except to tear our neck muscles almost as much as does watching a game of ping pong. And we believe that many will recall the thrill of watching a club loaf in the backcourt, slowly bring the ball up to the center line and then, with a burst of speed which was born in the moment of respite, cut loose a drive that matched punch-for-punch any plays we've seen in recent years. "Jap" Conroy, Sr., Nick Wen-jelboe, "Bony" Keller, Chuck Reese, the Kirschmeyer boys, Schriest, Harry Lord, Main Rich, "Tump" Pedlow, "Loaf" Brown, "Schuie," Al Wolfe, "Bib" Frost, "Rosey" Healey, Bob Offerte, Al Waid, Gerry O'Leary, Pat Riley, the Finleys, Harry Lawson and countless others gave your observer some basketball views he probably won't see again. And that game was "slow!" Ha!

Sports Round-up

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
New York, Jan. 9.—Don't be surprised if pro tennis invades the sacred precincts of Forest Hills next summer. Plans are under way to have some top fighters as Budge, Perry, Vines, Tilden, and others play a round-robin tournament out there. Business notes: In Detroit so many people jammed the lobby of the Olympic to pick up reservations for the Sonja Henie show that a hockey match scheduled that night had to be held up 15 minutes. And Jack Dempsey packed 1,000 customers into a Richmond, Va. hall to see him referee one match on a wrestling card. Ned Irish, the basketball impresario, has advised Art Rooney against staging double headers between college teams in the Pittsburgh Armory because of the limited seating capacity, only 7,000.

DUQUESNE WALLOPS TARTAN FIVE, 46-9

Pittsburgh, Jan. 9.—(P)—Taking an 18-0 lead in the first quarter, the undefeated Duquesne quintet went on to give Carnegie Tech a 46-9 beating last night. It was the Dukes sixth straight victory and Tech's seventh successive loss.

The lopsided triumph compared with a 67-1 drubbing Duquesne handed California Normal in 1915, and the Dukes' 37-9 win over Adrian College in 1924.

"If he had come here before Tuesday, at 3 o'clock (when James made his address to the legislature) I might have been able to give him details," the governor declared.

On the Lookout for Goering's Sea Hawks

To guard England's inland waterways against possible seaplane landings during an attempted German invasion, and at the same time to train young sailors for the Royal Navy, Great Britain maintains a fleet of small, fast and easily maneuverable launches. These are constantly on patrol, in cooperation with units of the navy and naval air arm. Photo above, shows two launches on duty, with machine guns trained on the sky where the enemy might appear.

Measure Ready for Congress

get message that appropriations to pay for the British aid would await passage of legislation authorizing them.

Any outlays would supplement the 1941-42 domestic budget submitted yesterday calling for $17,485,528,049, including a tentative total of $10,811,314,600 for defense.

Additional army and navy requests already in prospect promise to boost the defense figure to at least $13,000,000,000 this session.

It was learned that efforts are being made to complete the bill for simultaneous introduction in both Houses tomorrow.

Reports that the bill would carry very little if any limitation on authority to be given the President caused opponents to cry "blank check." But administration leaders predicted it would pass.

One leading opponent, Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) said the speech made in North Carolina Tuesday by William C. Plea For Mercy In Hopson Case Is Disregarded
(From Page One)
His two co-defendants, Attorneys Charles M. Travis and Garrett Brownback, who were accused of aiding Hopson in his kaleidoscopic fiscal manipulations for a number of years, were acquitted. Hopson was acquitted on a single count of conspiracy.

Fulton recommended the maximum sentence of five years on one count, but did not suggest a fine in addition, saying the government did not believe Hopson had sufficient assets to pay the just claims in this action and those arising from United States tax claims.

Hopson, 58 years old, arrived at the federal court house about 30 minutes before sentencing. He was accompanied by a male nurse who has been in constant attendance during the trial, and a clerk from Ironside's office. He carried two cheap traveling bags.

Wearing a brown overcoat and brown fedora, Hopson appeared in better spirits than he had been at any time during the trial.

The ailing Hopson, accompanied by two deputy U. S. marshals, left by automobile shortly after the sentencing for northeastern penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., where the marshal said, "there are ample hospital facilities."

Ironside asked for and received an extension of the court term for six months, in order to perfect an appeal. He told the court Hopson was "a victim of standards of a different era," and that his operations were "old transactions of years gone by."

Churchill said that the death of Lord Lothian, whom Lord Halifax succeeded as one of the highest consequence and that to repair the loss Britain thought it her duty to send "without regard to the derangement of our forces and circle here" the best man who could be found without regard to any other consideration.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Clark would like to have it known that during the last fourteen years there has been only twenty days in which none of the neighbors have been in to see them. Mrs. Clark has kept a record of the people who have been in each day. Mr. Clark is the oldest man in Freehold township and he will celebrate his ninety-first birthday on February 5th. Mr. Clark has lived these ninety-one years on Stony Run road.

With a negligible number of failures in the ten widely diversified courses, the idea already is declared highly successful and both school officials and students are optimistic in their praise of the plan which permits the enrichment of the Warren High curriculum by some 125 subjects.

During a visit to Warren yesterday, Allen E. Wierman, assistant director of correspondence instruction at the Pennsylvania State College, through which the courses were arranged here, he said that local classes were very successfully conducted and stated that he thinks it is a fine thing for Warren to have such an enrichment center.

Warren, he pointed out, has the largest enrollment in the type of correspondence study in the state of Pennsylvania. Warren High is one of the best in the state to inaugurate such a program, he said.

By introducing the directed correspondence study here, Mr. Wierman stated, Warren students are given the same opportunity of study that are available to those in larger cities where a large number of correspondence courses are possible.
